Concerns Prompt No-Parking Zone for Commercial Vehicles

FONTANA -The Board of Supervisors on Tuesday agreed to ban commercial vehicle parking on a section of Arrow Route between Hickory and Cottonwood avenues in unincorporated Fontana.

The pastor of a local church contacted the County to express concerns about parked commercial vehicles blocking the view of motorists as they left the church parking lot. Public Works staff investigated and discovered that parked trucks make it difficult for drivers to exit the church parking lot safely.

In addition, residents and business owners along the section of Arrow Route agreed that prohibiting commercial vehicle parking would enhance traffic safety in the area.

"The County is here to address resident concerns about issues just like this," Second District Supervisor Paul Biane said. "We need residents and business owners to let us know when unsafe traffic conditions exist."

Public Works will install signs on Arrow Route between Hickory and Cottonwood avenues prohibiting parking of commercial vehicles weighing over 10,000 pounds.
